

Somerset County goes Hog-Wild for Agriculture!

Welcome to the Hog-Wild for Agriculture activity book!
Each year, Somerset County takes part in the celebration of agriculture within the County by sharing information about some of the more popular topics in local farming. This year we are celebrating female farmers in the agricultural community and their influential roles throughout history.

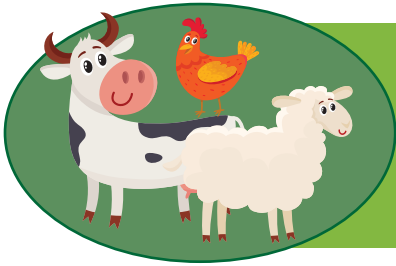

It is always the Board's mission to further educate about the deep rooted history of agriculture in our Nation, and how this history has helped to shape the world we know today. We hope you join us in celebration as Somerset County goes hog-wild for agriculture!

Respectfully,

Mark W. Kirby

Let's celebrate the women who paved the way in agriculture.

Meet our Farmette, Shanelle Donaldson!

This new Seattle farmer wants to bring unity to the farming community, having realized women of color do not have much representation in the farming community. To give women of color an outlet, Shanelle holds workshops showcasing the healing that comes along with farming.

Meet our Farmette, Anna Baldwin!

Anna operated a dairy farm in Newark, New Jersey in the 1860s. She decided to make the task easier by creating the first vacuum-style milker in 1878. Without Anna's hard work we would not be able to have the milk we drink today!
